Jambo! (hello in Swahili)

Asante sana (thank you very much)! I am grateful and humbled by your generous support. Your gifts have deeply moved me as I believe every gift represents your love for Jesus and a sacrifice on your part. Every dollar, though it may seem small, is a seed sown into the kingdom that will bring forth an abundant harvest of souls. Thank you so much for giving to the Lord so that those whose lives are void of life’s basic needs can hear of the one who loves them and meets their greatest need!

November 15th was our final (and my first) Kenya team meeting. I was asked to finalize my team assignment. After asking the Lord what team I should choose, He said He will use me regardless of the team I choose. The music team desperately needed singers and, since I can sing, I chose the music team. My roommate, Joy Hazucha - who plays cello in the Grace orchestra, is also on the music team. I am looking forward to singing with Joy (a fellow alto) and with GREAT JOY in Kenya. Bwana asifiwe! (Praise the Lord!)

Information about the Kenya trip is now on Dale’s and my personal website. The address is: <http://morgans.sbis-llc.com>. (Note: There is no www in front of morgans). The latest news and prayer requests are on the NEWS page. The support needed as of today is $820. I will send newsletters by e-mail to save postage as I have immunization and medication expenses for this trip costing several hundred dollars that are not covered by health insurance. If you received this newsletter by U.S. mail, I do not have your e-mail address.

Thank you for your prayers as I study Swahili. God has graciously given me a friend who is from Kenya who is helping unAmerican-ize my Swahili! Thank you, Jesus, for Priscilla!

I am grateful for your prayers for my heart preparation. I am experiencing freedom in Christ as never before. Bwana asifiwe!

Mungu awabariki ninyi (God bless you!)
